Two UK firms win in European 10

19 January, 2010

By Ruth Bloomfield

Two UK firms have been honoured in European 10, the international competition for architects under 40.

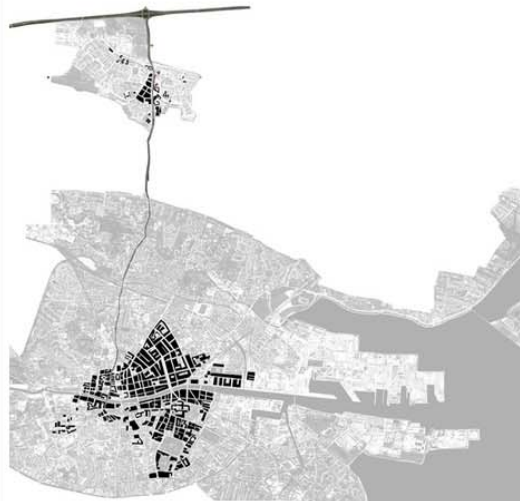

Projects by RALA Architect led by director Ross Lambie, based in London, for regeneration proposals for Dublin, and a team led by Ana Reis and Ross Langdon, of Langdon Reis Architects, for a scheme for Vardo in Norway have won their divisions in the annual event.

European asked young architects to develop innovative urban projects for 62 European cities.

The 56 winners receive a prize of £10,500 (12,000 euros).

This year 2,429 teams entered the contest, from some 50 different countries.

The theme of the competition was "inventing urbanity: regeneration, revitalization, colonisation" and entrants were asked to produce a plan for sustainable development.
